PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY

EAST SIDE THIRD STREET,
BETWEEN MARKET AND JEFFERSON.

SUNDAY.....MARCH 15, 1857.

THE Louisville Journal, in an article distinguished for the characteristic unscrupulousness of its conductors, undertakes to show up the inconsistency of the Democratic party. In 1820, it says, a Democratic Congress and a Democratic President passed what is termed the Missouri Compromise, and thirty-four years after a Congress and President of the same party repealed that measure, declaring it unconstitutional. Now, every tyro in politics knows under what circumstances the Missouri Compromise was adopted, and that in no sense could it be called a party measure in the common understanding of the term. The North had arrayed itself in mass against the admission of Missouri as a State, in consequence of her Constitution authorizing the existence of slavery. All Union loving men, of every political party in the country, looked in alarm at the threatening aspect of affairs produced by this discussion. At no period of our history has the confederacy been in greater danger. After the most earnest efforts of our greatest and most patriotic statesmen had been tried in vain to uphold the Constitution, this Missouri Compromise was devised and tendered to the North as a means of inducing that section of the country to decline further opposition to the demands of Missouri. A few members from the North at length withdrew their opposition, and she was admitted as a State, against the vote of nearly the whole North. And the North has ever since refused to be bound by the terms of this Compromise, and, with the exception of the Democrats of that region, and a few Whigs, have been incessantly laboring to exclude slavery from all the Territories, without respect to the line established by the Missouri Compromise. No human being, until now, as far as we know, has ever attempted to assert that the Missouri Compromise was the work of the Democratic party. On the contrary, it was a scheme devised to save the Union, by the whole South, of all political parties, under the pressure of circumstances to which we have alluded. Many who voted for it had scruples at the time, as is well known.

It was no measure of the Democracy as a party. This the writer in the Journal well knows. But even if it were, like the Compromise measures of 1850, it was the work of a political necessity which had arisen in the country, and which it would have been disingenuous to that party to have undone whenever the interest of the country dictated the propriety of doing so. No party, acting with wisdom, can be expected to adhere for all time to any single measure. As to principle, there was no principle in it. It was a measure whose whole purpose was to restore peace between conflicting sections, which it failed to accomplish. The North still kept up their anti-slavery agitation. It was for this reason, coupled with a conviction that the rights of the Southern States had been unconstitutionally abridged, that the Democratic party, seconded by every Know-Nothing Representative from Kentucky, voted for its repeal. These Know-Nothings have since shown their consistency by denouncing the Democracy for an act in which they participated, and which the Louisville Journal and their other organs in the South were forced to admit was right in principle, though some few of them vented to express their belief that it was bad in policy.

The question of constitutionality is now settled by the highest judicial tribunal in the land, and the action of those who voted for its repeal is fully sustained. So much for the party's empty tirade about Democratic inconsistency on this subject.

In regard to internal improvements, the Democratic party never have assumed it to be unconstitutional for the general government to appropriate money from the Federal Treasury for purposes of national interest. They have always, and do now, denounce the doctrine that is either constitutional or political, to institute a corrupting system of internal improvements within the States, for objects of mere local and State interest. This is their doctrine now, and they have never held any other. We do not say that every individual of the Democratic party entertains these views, nor is any party a unit upon every question that may arise in the course of legislation.

The Journal further says, that the Democratic party profess to be devoutly attached to State sovereignty, and have passed the Kansas-Nebraska bill, which, in derogation of the rights of the States, establishes the squatter sovereignty doctrine. This thing of "squatter sovereignty" has been used by the Journal in every number for a year or two back, as a sort of scare-crow. It is constantly repeated in a parrot-like manner, to alarm the weak-minded brethren, who are thus made to believe that something dreadful is involved in the phrase. Poor fellows, they ought to insist on its explaining what is meant by this cabalistic phrase. It acknowledges the great right of the people to govern themselves, within the limits established by the Federal Constitution, to be adjudged and settled whenever necessary, by the Supreme judicial authority.

The great doctrine of the Democratic party, in contrast with all others that has existed in the country, is the equality of the several States, and the equality of the citizens of these States. This is the great paramount principle which alone secures perpetuity to our free institutions. How will the selfish and unprincipled Know-Nothing combination, with its detestable bigotry and intolerance, stand such a test.

The National Democrat, Jeffersonville, Ind.

We notice a decided improvement in both the editorial and typography of this paper of late. It bears evidence of marked talent and industry on the part of its editors and publishers. Some of its paragraphs are well-worth a transfer to the columns of our city papers, but they mainly pertain to the politics of the Hoosier State and locality, which renders them of less interest to our readers in Kentucky. The "Greencastle plank" screwed to the Republican platform, "is peculiarly rich."

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.—The Governor has offered a reward of two hundred dollars for the apprehension of William Shindlebauer, who killed Many, in Frankfort, a few days since.

THE Maysville Eagle says that the Hon. L. M. Cox will doubtless be the unanimous choice of the American party in the Ninth District, for re-election to Congress.

THE We understand that the Mission to Berlin has been tendered to our fellow-citizen, James B. Clay, Esq., by the President. This is a high compliment to Mr. Clay personally, and one which shows that Mr. Clay's efforts in the recent Presidential campaign are fully appreciated by the other great generalities, but he should not be surprised if Mr. Clay declines taking this or any other position under the present Administration.—Lex. Ob. & Rep., 13th.

Something for the Gentlemen to Consider. Now we don't intend to tell the old bachelors, widowers, or dashing young gallants, who our fair correspondent is, but if they knew her as we do, they would all speak at once.

That she is "a sure enough live woman" should be sufficient for them to know at present. We can, however, in advance, congratulate the happy man who secures the company of a companionable and charming traveler. Indeed, as her next friend, we should have ignored her first two propositions, and would reluctantly yield our consent to the third. If, however, a frank, manly, noble spirit, seeks the companionable of a gentle, confiding woman, and wishes to make the tour, we may give our sanction to the trip:

[For the Louisville Democrat.]

Appeal to Gallantry.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A lady of "uncertain age," and only slight pretensions to beauty and talent, being very desirous to make the European tour, and not having an escort for that purpose, in the outburst of eagerness, first proposed defraying the expenses of any gentleman who would accompany her, and, without difficulty, found one who readily acceded to this proposition; but for the sake of his own fair reputation, she will forbear mentioning either his name or profession.

After a calmer deliberation of the matter, she began to think she might make a more advantageous arrangement than this; so amended her first resolution, by a second proposition in this form, that she would "foot her own bills," if any gentleman was willing to make a transatlantic trip with her; and the second offer was accepted by an elegant and talented clergyman of rather more "uncertain age" than herself.

She has reflected a third time in a still less excited state of feeling, and has modestly concluded, notwithstanding her want of youthful attractions, that some gentleman may yet be gallant enough to come forward upon more liberal principles than the two preceding, with heart and hand subservient to her wishes, for "A noble act more noble does appear, How much more it cost the dear deer."

Should this courteous and accomodating gentleman be found, he can have an interview with the amiable lady by calling at the "Democratic office" during the "Month of March," where she will be found anxiously awaiting the result, not fearing to be overwhelmed by the terms of this Compromise, and with the exception of the Democrats of that region, and a few Whigs, have been incessantly laboring to exclude slavery from all the Territories, without respect to the line established by the Missouri Compromise. No human being, until now, as far as we know, has ever attempted to assert that the Missouri Compromise was the work of the Democratic party. On the contrary, it was a scheme devised to save the Union, by the whole South, of all political parties, under the pressure of circumstances to which we have alluded. Many who voted for it had scruples at the time, as is well known.

It was no measure of the Democracy as a party. This the writer in the Journal well knows. But even if it were, like the Compromise measures of 1850, it was the work of a political necessity which had arisen in the country, and which it would have been disingenuous to that party to have undone whenever the interest of the country dictated the propriety of doing so.

No party, acting with wisdom, can be expected to adhere for all time to any single measure. As to principle, there was no principle in it. It was a measure whose whole purpose was to restore peace between conflicting sections, which it failed to accomplish.

The North still kept up their anti-slavery agitation. It was for this reason, coupled with a conviction that the rights of the Southern States had been unconstitutionally abridged, that the Democratic party, seconded by every Know-Nothing Representative from Kentucky, voted for its repeal. These Know-Nothings have since shown their consistency by denouncing the Democracy for an act in which they participated, and which the Louisville Journal and their other organs in the South were forced to admit was right in principle, though some few of them vented to express their belief that it was bad in policy.

The second John Floyd was long a Representative in Congress from one of the Western districts of Virginia, and sustained a high reputation for ability and inflexible integrity of purpose.

The present Secretary of War is the third of that name, and has filled several of the highest offices in the gift of the people of Virginia with unsurpassed popular approbation:

There have been three John Floyds, the grandfather, the father, and the son. The grandfather was a native of Fincastle county, which then embraced the whole State of Kentucky, the first John Floyd, Secretary of War, which appeared in a late number of the Richmond Examiner. The John Floyd spoken of in the following paragraph, is the grandfather of the present John Floyd. He was born after Perry's victory, was present in the pursuit of Proctor, and participated in the triumph at the Moravian towns. The North-western campaign being happily terminated, General Cass was left in command of Michigan and the upper provinces of Canada. His headquarters were at Detroit, and he thus became the military guardian of a people over whom he was soon after (October 9, 1813) called to preside over the first executive branch of the administration of the war. General Cass moved his family to Detroit, where he was nominated for President at Baltimore, by the Democratic Convention, receiving a two-thirds vote on the fourth-ballot. Owing to the treachery of Mr. Van Buren and his friends, who brought out a third candidate in the person of Martin Van Buren himself, he was defeated for President by a vote of 161 to 137. The whole electoral vote for him in 1813, as Ludovicus. It is hardly necessary to urge an attendance, for the people will be anxious to see her once more.

MOZART HALL.—There was a larger audience last night than on Friday evening. Professor Spencer's experiments in physiology were only partially successful. We do not attribute the fault to him, but to the audience and the subiects, who certainly did not give him a fair opportunity. Mrs. Baker's clairvoyant performances were, however, entirely successful, and excited great interest. To-morrow night the lecture and experiments will be repeated; and if the audience, and those who volunteer as subjects, will give the Doctor a fair chance, there can be no doubt that he will be able to satisfy the most incredulous.

SINKING OF THE SWAMP FOX.—On the 4th inst., the steamer Swamp Fox, Capt. Kimball, from Shreveport for New Orleans, with a cargo of about 1,100 bales cotton, struck a snag when at Willow Point, forty miles above Camp and sunk. The boat is a total loss. Most of the cargo was saved. The steamer Holden brought to New Orleans one hundred and seventy-one bales cotton saved from the Swamp Fox, also her crew and passengers. She also had 900 bales cotton from the wreck of the steamer Storm, and the passengers and crew from the wreck of the H. M. Wright.

Local Affairs.

A WICKED POST-HASTER.—There has been considerable complaint in this city and New Albany recently, on account of the delay of mail-service between Indianapolis and the Ohio river. We are now able to explain the cause. The post-office in Indianapolis is closed at 9 o'clock in the evening, and the mails which leave in the morning contain no matter deposited in the office after that hour. Our papers and letters from Indianapolis are thirty-six, and often forty-eight hours old when we receive them. This is very annoying, and we are astonished that they have no more enterprise in a city of such importance as Indianapolis.

PORTFOLIO OF THE PRESIDENTS.—The sum of $10,000 has been appropriated by Congress to defray the expense of painting the portraits of the Presidents. It is probable that Mr. Beard, the distinguished Cincinnati artist, will get a commission for a picture. It is but reasonable to suppose that Kentucky genius and skill will be employed, and with that view, every eye will turn without hesitation to W. P. Braman, Esq., of our own city, who, as a delineator of the human face probably has no living superior.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A little female child, aged about four weeks, in the family of Martin Nagle, who lives in Main street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, was burned to death Friday afternoon. The parents were out at the time, for the purpose of purchasing a little wagon and cradle for the use of the child, having left it alone by a wood fire. When the parents returned, they found the infant so horribly burned that it died almost immediately.

SMALL ROBBERY.—The Farmer's Hotel, in Market street, between First and Brook, was entered by a burglar on Friday night, who ripped open the pockets of some of the boarders. He only succeeded in getting money to the amount of $4 or $5. In one instance, he stole a boarder's pants, the pockets of which contained some loose screws, which the thief doubtless supposed was money. No one is suspected of the burglary, we believe.

DOMESTIC DIFFICULTY.—A domestic trouble in the family of a German named Zeller was brought before Judge Johnston yesterday. It seems that Zeller himself and the mother-in-law are at the bottom of the trouble. Mrs. Zeller was prepossessing in her appearance, and the couple have been married but two months. His honor could do nothing for them, and the case was dismissed.

NATIVE AMERICANS AMONG US.—Two Indians, a man and wife, were in the city yesterday soliciting "wampum" of their pale brethren, wherewith to pay their expenses to Washington city, whence they are going to pay their respects to their "Great Father"—the old-bachelor President.

Wm. Gilmore and Edward Hardin, two of the men who participated in the riotous conduct in upper Green street, on Friday evening, detailed in the Democrat yesterday, were held to bail in Police Court, yesterday, each for twelve months; Hardin in $500 and Gilmore in $300.

REMAINS OF A RUNAWAY.—About 10 o'clock last night, a boy with a horse to which the shafts of a buggy were attached, was at the corner of Third and Jefferson streets, inquiring for the owner of the lost property.

THE RIVER AND WEATHER.—The river continues to recede at this point, with less than 3 feet in the past at the Falls.

The weather last night was heavy and cloudy, with indications of rain.

PEACE WARRANT.—Michael Hogan was held to bail yesterday, in Police Court, for the good behavior himself and wife toward Mr. Timothy Harrington and wife. The parties fell out in an attempt on the part of Harrington to raise a small amount of rent.

CONTRACTING FOR OWN COFFIN.—A fortnight ago we gave the details of one of the most deliberate and cold-blooded dunces in the history of the code of honor, which occurred at an early day in Green county, Ky. We call to mind an instance of a more local and recent character, some of the circumstances connected with which the city reader will remember. Our little story is a sequel to a terrible homicide and suicide which were committed in Louisville some four years ago by a man by the name of Walker. In the year 1843 Walker gained admission into the family of James Peters, in Natchez, Miss., and while an inmate of Peters' house became enamored of Peters' wife, who was at the time a young and lovely woman. With a fiendish design upon Peters' life, Walker induced him to take a walk with him in the suburbs of Natchez late one evening, when Walker made an assault upon his companion with a bowie-knife, cutting him most horribly, and leaving him apparently dead. Walker immediately left Natchez in company with the supposed widow of Peters, and made Louisville his home, where he lived with Mrs. P. as his wife. Strange to say, Peters recovered from his wounds, and in his wandering found his way to this city. Soon after his arrival he learned that his old betrayer and assassin resided here, and he determined upon immediate revenge. Throwing himself into a hack, he ordered the driver to proceed to Second street, between Market and Jefferson, the residence of Walker and his own early love. He sent the hackman to the door of the dwelling to call Walker to the carriage, and his old enemy soon made his appearance. When Peters fired upon him from the carriage, killing him instantly. Peters immediately surrendered himself into the hands of justice, regardless of the course of the law, but was finally set at liberty—receiving no punishment for his high crime. A strange combination of circumstances again associated him with the woman who had proven so cruelly false to him in Natchez, and they lived together for some years in comparative happiness. Some four years ago, however, in a fit of jealousy, he determined to destroy the life of the woman who had acted as a bane to his earthly happiness, and evidently meditated a design upon his own life.

MISCELLANEOUS.—Rev. Lafayette Dudley was ordained by the Presbytery of Iowa City in session at Mt. Vernon, recently; and his installation over the First Presbyterian Church of Cedar Rapids was conducted by a commission of the Presbytery on Sunday, February 8th, ult.

CARPETING AND FURNISHING STORE.—Hite & Small, 499 Main street, just above Third, keep at all times a complete stock of boots and shoes for ladies, gents, and youths' wear. Their assortment embraces every variety known to the trade.

MRS. MAYERS, FANCY MILLINER.—A very neat and beautiful establishment has been fitted up on the south side of Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. It is the millinery store of Mrs. Mayers. It will doubtless soon become the fashionable resort of the ladies in search of the latest and newest styles of bonnets, caps, ribbons, faces, &c.

THE NEW CHURCH.—A new church of sixty-one members, mostly from the Second Church in Randolph, Mass., has been erected in the name of the Methodist Church, Randolph. The Rev. E. C. Howell, who had sustained the relation of pastor to this Second Church in Randolph for seven years past, having been invited to become their pastor, accepted the call to St. John's Church, Wheeling, Va.

REGISTRATIONS.—Rev. Samuel L. Soudard, formerly Rector of the House of Prayer in Newark, it is stated, has resigned his position as an Rector of St. John's Church, Buffalo, on account of ill health.

REV. G. K. WARNER has resigned the Rectorship of the St. John's Church, Wheeling, Va.

REVIEW OF THE DAY.—The new Baptist society in Bridgeport, Conn., are talking about buying the Universal church.

REV. E. D. MACMASTER, D. D., has accepted the Professorship of Theology in the Seminary at Chicago.

ACCORDING to accounts from Rome the next Consul is to be held on some date between the 15th and 20th of March, and some French papers will be preoccupied with it. The Bull or the installations of the new archbishops of Paris, Tours and Aix will arrive, it is stated, in France in sufficient time to enable those present to take possession of their sees before Easter.

THE LATE MEETING of the standing committee of the diocese of New Jersey, fourteen candidates for holy orders were admitted; those named are P. V. Finch, A. B., an alumnus of Burlington college; Wm. R. Hale, Thomas A. T. Taylor, J. N. St. John, M. J. Anderson, A. B. M. H. C. E. Costill, Hugh L. M. Clarke, A. G. L. Lewis, A. B., J. P. Sanderson, H. Wells and Thomas Lytle.

TURKISH TOLERATION.—Correspondents from Constantinople and Aleppo give a most interesting description of the state of things relative to religious toleration in Turkey. Converts from Islamism are now suffered to live among their friends unmolested. The wife and child and mother-in-law of one convert have rejoined him, and their reunion is likely to lead to his salvation. Their Turkish neighbors do not think of separating the rest. This indicates a great change of public feeling and shows how the authorities, at present at least, view and treat such cases, in honorable observance of the law of Holy Humanity (i.e., royal constitution). Another case illustrative of this improved spirit is that of a Turk who lives in the city with all his family professing Christianity (if of late Islamism), and who is allowed to go to public Christian worship by removing to a Christian quarter.
